

From: Josh McGuigan [REDACTED]
Sent: Thursday, 3 January 2013 5:18 PM
To: Electoral Reform
Subject: Proposed changes to Electoral Laws would be a backward step

Dear Sir/Madam

As a Queensland voter, I would like to voice my opposition to the proposed changes to Queensland's electoral laws. If voting in state elections was to be made non-compulsory, I fear the most disadvantaged within society would be less likely to vote, and thus further disadvantaged and marginalised through under-representation in policy development. I feel the numerous methods for voting under the current system (eg postal / absentee etc) make it more than possible for every eligible citizen to fulfil their compulsory obligation to vote without significant imposition.

Sincerely

Dr Josh McGuigan

