I consider this is a retrograde step for Queensland and will decrease the number of people voting which will allow the electoral process in Queensland to be hijacked by special interest groups and will cause confusion when there is a federal poll. This significant change was not taken to the last election which is disturbing. This is not what the people of Qld voted for. The other proposed changes to funding of donations are also of concern and again will disenfranchise Queenslanders and serve to entrench the current government.
